

SAKAL SOCIAL SERVICES

Let us do following to contain the abuse of English language in world and make Hindi a global language:

1. Education should be given with mother tongue as medium of instruction. Where it is difficult to give education using mother tongue, education should be given using national language, for example in National Schools. Where it is difficult to use either of mother tongue or national language, education should be given using Hindi language, for example in Global Schools.
 - 1A. Education must not be given using English medium in non-English speaking regions of world. Non-English speaking regions of world are all countries of world except Britain, U.S.A., Australia and Newzealand. English is a burdensome language for world because it has spelling and pronunciation disorders. On contrary, being of Indo-Arabic language family, Hindi language has great simplicity of spellings and pronunciations.
2. As a language for communicating with other language communities, students should be taught one or more additional languages. One such language will be Hindi language which will be considered global language and taught to all students. Teaching of additional language(s) can be started at age of 10 years or above.
3. To begin with, education using English medium be phased out up to 12th standard (age below 18 years) in non-English speaking regions of world. This task of phasing out should be accomplished in a time frame of 15 years. For this, beginning with Kindergarten, every year one standard will be made free from English medium education. Teachers who taught English medium syllabus will be used after due training of local or Hindi language.
4. Eventually, world should be made free from English medium education except in English speaking countries. All studies, research etc. will be carried out in languages which will be either the mother tongue of a person or a simple language Hindi. This will result in proper development of all the people of world from language point of view. People will be able to stop increasing influence of English language on other languages and will not be unnecessarily burdened with learning of English language. Persons will be able to concentrate most on their study, research, work, rather than on learning English language which is used more in some parts of Globe and difficult to spell and pronounce. This is also necessary to save and spread Hindi language which is far better than English language.
